Problem The ECS Modeling and Simulation group uses NCD X-terms (for running the BONEs simulation language) and Macintoshes (for office automation). SMO management wants the modelers to find a way to use only one computer (per person) for both tasks. Amy Butler (HTSC) is prepared to install a 166 MHz Pentium PC w/21" monitor into cube 3101G for the modelers to evaluate for suitability. We want to test not only BONEs performance, but also the office automation performance. To do this testing safely, we need to have a temporary UNIX account created, so that nobody's "real" mail or files are damaged or deleted during testing.
Proposed Solution Request Amy Butler to install the PC into 3101G. Request Chris Nespor to create a UNIX account (duration: seven days). Suggested (fictitious) user_name: Duck N. Cover. After test, remove PC and UNIX account.
